ACADEMIC & PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS HELD

LIBRARY EXPERIENCE

The Olive Project
Principal Investigator
Carnegie Mellon University
July 1, 2013-

Continues to serve as the university's official liaison with Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Carnegie Mellon University.

Dean of University Libraries
Carnegie Mellon University
April 1998-June 30 2013

Reports to the Provost and is a member of the President's Council and the Dean's group.

University Libraries include Hunt Library, Engineering & Science Library, Mellon Institute Library, Posner Center (rare book facility), the Penn Avenue Depository (offsite storage), and Qatar Library.

Librarians are appointed and promoted under a librarian track. Software Engineering Institute librarians are on that track and that library contracts with University Libraries for library automation, acquisitions, and cataloging support.

Library collection includes over 1.2 million physical volumes, 1.5 million pages of digital archival content, and a growing collection of digital books. Music listening, slide collection, audiovisual services, archives, and special collections are also in the library.

Responsible for budgets, strategic planning, advisory board, personnel resources, digital libraries, leadership of the library faculty, collections, and services.

Works with a special gifts officer (University Advancement) to raise additional resources for the library with the assistance of a Libraries Advancement Board.

Serves as the university's official liaison with Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at Carnegie Mellon University.

With Dr. Raj Reddy, Dr. Michael Shamos, and Dr. Jaime Carbonell, directs CMU's Universal Library, an international digitization project with several U.S. partners and a broad working coalition of libraries and computer scientists in India and China. Conceived and implemented as the Million Book Project in 1999, the Universal Library now has digitized more than 2 million volumes, and made them available free-to-read on the World Wide Web. Many of the targeted volumes are out of copyright; some are in copyright and digitized with publishers' permission. My primary roles included collection oversight and grant writing. I was co-principal investigator or principal investigator on all of our grants ($3.6M total to date).

Expert Witness

May 2012-

St. Clair was retained by Google, Inc. to "provide [her] opinions regarding the challenges libraries and others face in identifying and finding copyright owners, and regarding the practices of libraries with respect to the digitization of books at the time Google began its Google Books project."
